Sales Sheet of Kyushu

Kyushu Global Team

What's Kyushu?

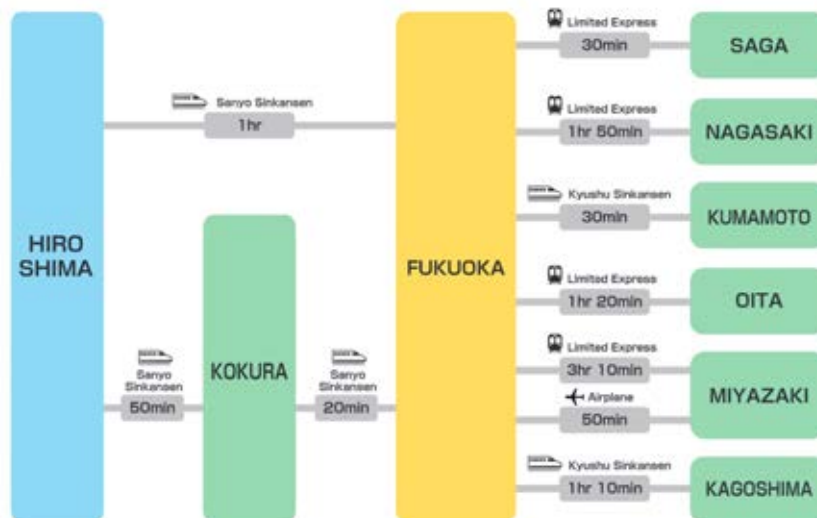

◆ Location

Kyushu is located in the south-west of Japan and has some areas with a tropical climate and many islands with beautiful seas and scenic beauty, including Amami Oshima.

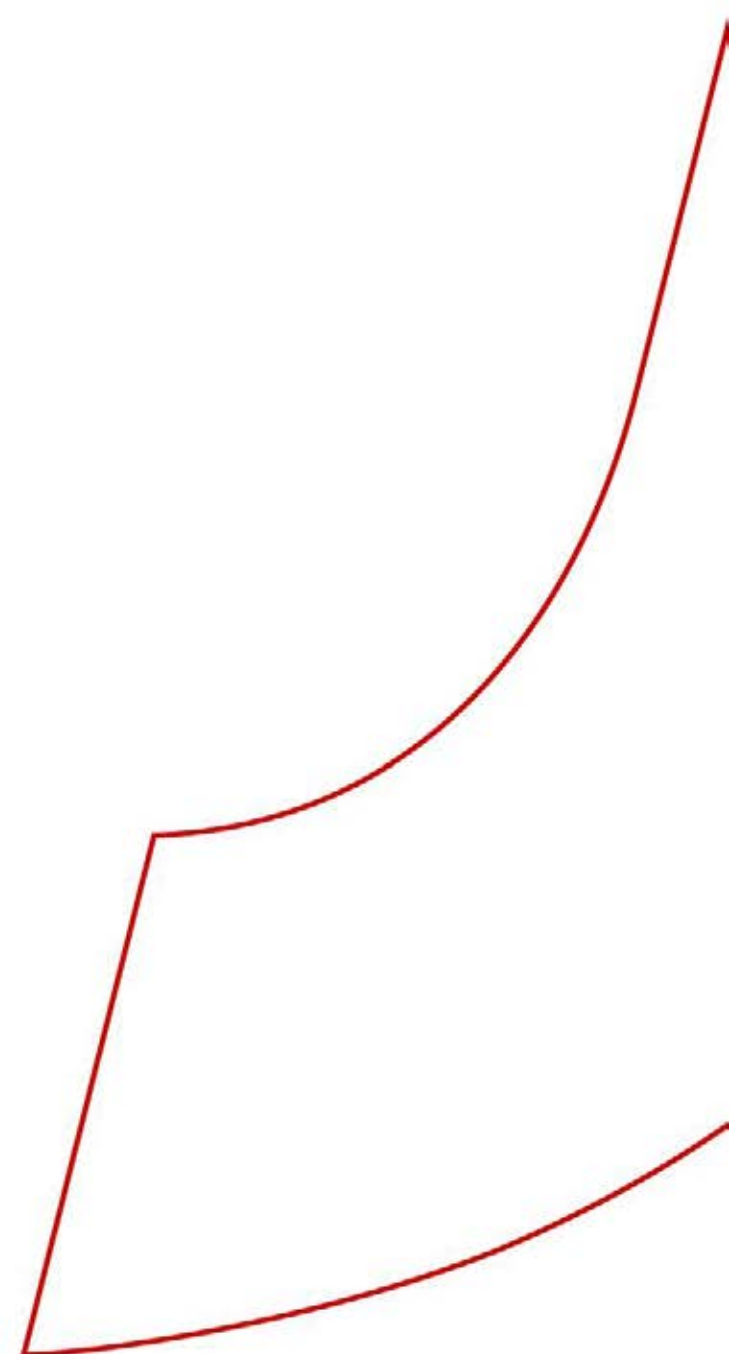

There are many famous tourist destinations with dynamic nature, including Yakushima, Mount Aso and Takachiho, as well as many places where you can even enjoy various activities. Blessed with abundant nature, Kyushu is also a treasure trove of culinary delights, from fresh seafood, brand-name beef and seasonal produce to local specialities and nationally renowned sake and imo-shochu. As many golfers also visit Kyushu, it takes only one and a half hours to fly from South Korea to Fukuoka and about three hours by high-speed ferry. There are also airports in all the prefectures of Kyushu, as well as a two-hour Shinkansen bullet train ride from Fukuoka to Kagoshima.

◆ Access

We hope you will add the richness of Kyushu to your travel destinations, tour all the prefectures of Kyushu and receive the bounty of the various regions of Kyushu.

The hot springs are free-flowing and contain metasilicic acid, which is said to be a natural lotion that creates fine skin and is also suitable for creating beautiful skin (containing 50 mg or more is said to be effective for moisturizing). Higashien's hot springs have a unique source and is a simple acidic hot spring, it boasts a content of 210.4mg, which is the only one in Unzen Onsen. It is thanks to this metasilicic acid that the hot springs are gentle on the skin, and the hot springs at Higashien are very warm.

Shichittoi Craft Experience

Experience Plan

The handicraft experience programme that can only be done in the Kunisaki region: 'Shichittoi Craft Experience'.

The traditional craft experience in the Kunisaki region.

First of all, have you ever heard of the term 'Shichittoi'? Most of you have perhaps never heard of it before.

"Shichittoi" is a plant of the Cyperaceae that is used to make tatami mats. Ryukyu tatami originally refers to tatami made from Shichittoi rush. Shichittoi was cultivated in the Ryukyu Islands and Tokara island in Kagoshima about 360 years ago. It was eventually introduced to Oita and the rest of the country, where its strength and beauty led to its use in the homes of ordinary people and as judo tatami. Production peaked in the 1950s, and the number of makers gradually declined. At present, seven farmers in Kunisaki are the only tatami producers in the country. However, because of its triangular cross-section, it cannot be woven or knitted as it is. The individual stems need to be split lengthwise, and moreover, the dried Nanashima rush is of varying thickness and length. Farmers sort out by hand which ones are suitable for tatami mats. The Shichittoi rushes rejected in the sorting process are used to make handicrafts.

This time, using rejected the Shichittoi rushes, the participants will have a hands-on experience of making handicrafts with a lecture by Chika Iwakiri, the only Shichittoi Rush craftswoman in Japan. Through this experience, the participants will have the opportunity to feel the value of life that Shichittoi Rush has brought to Ms Iwakiri in the past, present and future as 'real value'.
